

SEVEN HILLS OF ROME

Rome's 7 hills from north to south

Q

Quirinal Hill

Location of Palazzo Quirinale, the home of the Presidency of the Italian Republic.

Nearby points of interest: Panorama over Rome, Trevi Fountain, changing of the guard

Other names: Colle Quirinale, Monte Cavallo

V

Viminal Hill

The Viminal Hill is the smallest of Rome's original seven hills.

Nearby points of interest: National Roman Museum, including the Baths of Diocletian; Termini Train Station

Other name: Colle Viminale

E

Esquiline Hill

The largest of Rome's seven hills, the Esquiline was the site of Nero's Golden House (Domus Aurea).

Nearby points of interest: Colosseum, Santa Maria Maggiore

Other name: Colle Esquilino

C

Capitoline Hill

The seat of Rome's city government is headquartered on the Capitoline.

Nearby points of interest: Capitoline Museums, Santa Maria in Aracoeli, Vittoriano Monument

Other names: Campidoglio, Capitolium

P

Palatine Hill

The original hill of Rome's 7 hills, the Palatine is where Romulus, Remus, and the legend of Rome were born.

Nearby points of interest: Roman Forum, ruins of ancient imperial palaces, Circus Maximus

Other name: Colle Palatino

C

Caelian Hill

The Caelian Hill is perhaps the least known of Rome's 7 hills. Marcus Aurelius was born here.

Nearby points of interest: Baths of Caracalla, Villa Celimontana

Other name: Colle Celio

A

Aventine Hill

Leafy, tranquil, and rich, the Aventine Hill is largely residential.

Nearby points of interest: Knights of Malta keyhole, Giardini degli Aranci

Other name: Colle Aventino